ISO (International Standards Organization) Upgrades Symbology, Inc. Certification Level

Minneapolis, MN – For Immediate Release: Having earned and maintained their ISO certification since 1996, Symbology, Inc. has now been upgraded to ISO 9001:2008 by DNV (Det Norske Veritas – independent ISO foundation). Maintaining the highest industry standards ensures reliability and exceptional quality of a registered company’s products and services.

The primary components of the ISO 9001:2008 certification consist of five main clauses. Annual review and approval by DNV evaluators is required to maintain certification. The clauses are:

- Quality Management System
- Management Responsibility
- Resource Management
- Product Realization
- Measurement, Analysis and Improvement

Symbology, a manufacturer of digital barcode files, sequential barcode labels and distributor of barcode verification equipment, is proud of their new ISO 9001:2008 level, as well as their long running ISO certification. Clients trust them to get it right, and Symbology continues to meet their expectations.

Why are international quality standards important? According to DNV, “The objective of any standard, whether it relates to the manufacture of cars, airplanes, machinery, or the delivery of a service – transportation, hospitals, etc. – is the same. Standards are designed to promote, facilitate and enable consistency in a process or product; to provide assurance that the process or product output will meet requirements; to provide a uniform and predictable output every time a set of procedures are executed. Because standards assist buyers and consumers in establishing confidence levels in the products and services they procure, standards facilitate fair trade practices.”
